Saint Andrew's Noble Order

Of Royal Scots

Who's Who in Her Majesty's Court

Her Most Royal Majesty, Mary Stuart

Born December 1542, the only child of King James V of Scotland and Marie de Guise, and the only legitimate child of King James, Mary became Queen of Scotland as a newborn upon her father's death. She grew up in the French Court with Marys Fleming, Beaton, Seton, and Livingston. At age 15 she married Francois, the Dauphin of France. Mary became Queen Consort of France at age 16 when Francois's father died, making him King. In 1560 Mary became a widow at age 18. Mary's mother-in-law Catherine di Medici was adamant that Mary not rule France. With the death of Mary's mother also in 1560, Mary decided to return to Scotland to rule Her country as is Her right of birth and as ordained by God. Arriving in Leith on Augut 19, 1561, a Catholic in a Protestant country, Her Majesty meets with the Lords of the Congregation, Her half brothers and half sister. She Progresses throughout Scotland to meet Her subjects and works to win the hearts and minds of Her people. Many nobles in Scotland, as well as Royalty throughout Europe attempt to arrange a marriage for Mary that is to their advantage. Romance, intrigue and treachery abound.
